JP&E Climate in Justice in Creation time

Whilst we pray for all children who have started/returned to school, and for young people embarking on University, did you know that at least 242 million students in 85 countries or territories had their schooling disrupted by extreme climate events including heat waves, tropical cyclones, storms, floods and droughts in 2024, exacerbating an existing learning crisis. September recorded the most frequent climate-related school disruptions, at least 18 countries suspended classes. Heat waves are the leading cause of Climate injustice in education putting millions of young people at risk of dropping out of education.
